ASCPT Privacy Policy

ASCPT is committed to providing users with a safe, secure environment in which to view, transmit and receive information. ASCPT will use reasonable efforts to ensure that the information you provide remains private, and is used only for the purposes stated below.

Collected Information

We may collect information about the users of our site. This information helps us determine which parts of the site visitors find most valuable as well as how we can continually improve the services we provide. User identities remain anonymous unless the user provides this information as a part of registration.

We may collect and store the following information: the name of the domain and host from which you access the Internet (for example, aol.com or princeton.edu); the Internet protocol (IP) address of the computer you are using; the browser software you use and your operating system; the date and time you access our site; and the Internet address of the website from which you linked directly to our site. We may use your IP address to help diagnose problems with our servers and to administer our website.

Users may use the ASCPT website without registering but registration as a member must occur in order to use any of the member only areas of the website. Our site's member application form requires specific contact information: name, e-mail address, etc. We use this member contact information to learn more about our visitors. The member contact information is also used to contact users when necessary.

Links to Other Sites

ASCPT's website may contain links to third-party websites. These links are provided solely as a convenience to users and not as an endorsement by ASCPT of the contents on such third-party websites. ASCPT is not responsible for the content of linked third-party sites and does not make any representations regarding the content or accuracy of materials on such third-party websites. Links to third-party websites are performed at your own risk.

ASCPT does not represent or guarantee the truthfulness, accuracy, or reliability of communications posted by users or endorse any opinions expressed by users. User acknowledges that any reliance on material posted by other users will be at the user's risk. Once you access an individual document that links you to another website, you are subject to the privacy policy of the website containing that document.

E-mail messages

ASCPT may communicate with its users by e-mail for specific Web-related functions. Because these messages are critical to site use, users will not be able to opt-out of receiving such messages.
Users have the option of receiving occasional e-mails from us about new features and similar messages that we feel may be of interest. Users may opt-in to receive these messages. The following options are available to opt-out of receiving these messages if users have previously opted-in:

1. Send e-mail to info@ascpt.org
2. Send mail to ASCPT, 528 North Washington Street, Alexandria, VA 22314
3. Call (703) 836-6981

Cookies

At ASCPT, we use a feature on your Internet browser called a "cookie". A cookie is a small file that your Web browser places on your computer's hard drive to identify you as a user. ASCPT does not use cookies to collect any personal information about users, nor do we sell or make them available to other organizations.

You may disable the cookie function on your browser or erase the contents in your cookies file. To do this, consult the help features in your browser and program manager. However, please bear in mind that doing this prevents the website from recognizing you as a previous user of the website.

Security

Your account containing your information is password protected and should never be shared with anyone. This site has security measures in place to protect the loss, misuse, and alteration of the information under our control.

Feedback

ASCPT encourages visitors to submit feedback. Any feedback that is submitted becomes the property of ASCPT and we may use this feedback for marketing purposes, or to contact visitors for more information.

Privacy Policy Updates

Any changes to our privacy policy will be posted here. If, at any time, you have questions or concerns about ASCPT's privacy statement, the practices of this site, or your dealings with this website, contact us at:
